No. 13 April 2022

Note: Copies of “West Dapto Catholic Cemetery -The Early Families” are still available from Wendy and Terry Nunan. Cost $150 plus $35 postage and packaging. Collection of books from our residence in Haywards Bay is possible by prior arrangement. Contact us on 42570042, 0411547169 or by email: wich53@gmail.com

Over the past few weeks we have made a number of trips to the library to obtain the death and funeral notices post-1954 from our list of those we know to be buried in the cemetery. We have also checked out the South Coast Times 1955-1968 for possible obituaries of those who died in this period. We had hoped to complete the list last week but arrived at the library to discover only one microfilm reader was available. So Terry sat at the reader and Wendy collected the films from the drawers to keep Terry's supply going. It did speed up his work but unfortunately it meant we did not complete our list – have 36 left to do out of our original list of 300-400. Now mind you, this is just the death / funeral notices that we know we need. Whilst typing what we have collected, a number were noted as stating “result of accident” so they are now on a list for a slower hunt through newspapers to see if we can find any accident reports to add to their biographies. As we work through the files we will also have notices to chase for spouses or children, not buried in the cemetery, but whose information we require. The other interesting thing we have noted as we have been typing up these notices are the interconnections between a number of families, which will help – eg having obtained the parents for person A, this also gives us the parents for person B.

Many of these notices give us a lot of information but the occasional one that just states something like “wife, mother and grandmother”, with no accompanying names, gives little information. So, without help from family members, we will need to resort to the purchase of death registration transcripts. However, we can only obtain copies of death registrations of those who died at least 30 years' ago. Hence for those who died post 1991, unless family are willing to help, we will have very little information. If we do have the spouse listed and they married prior to 1972, we can obtain copies of the marriage record to help with more information and possible leads for research. As we are trying to also include details of children's marriages, the same applies to them. However, if this marriage information can be supplied instead from family members, it will save on our research costs. To put this into perspective, consider that we are documenting say 300 or more families. We need to consider the worth of purchasing marriage transcripts for the parents plus 2-3 children per family at a cost of between $18 and $22 depending on when we order them (discount prices (for NSW transcripts) are offered on occasions so we store up a list and then usually order in bulk).

Hence a death post-1991 with no leads to a marriage (NSW) pre-1972 may end up with a story containing only a death and funeral notice. Not every burial had a death or funeral notice so unfortunately, some of these may lead to only what is on a person's headstone, if there is one.

Also in this publication will be a number of European migrants. Their stories will need to be told by their families. Where did they come from, why did they come, what did they do in the “old country”? Sometimes we can find the ship they came on but this does not give a lot of information.

Hopefully, from the above, you may get the idea that we NEED help with information. If you don't feel capable of putting pen to paper or typing information up on a computer to email, then please just ring us on 4257 0042 and we will organise to visit you, providing you are in the Illawarra. If you are not in the Illawarra, please ring us anyway and we will happily take notes over the phone. A reminder also that we need photographs. We can scan the photos for you – we will borrow and return photographs within 24 hours, or you can bring them to our place and we will scan them while you wait. If you scan the photos yourself, please use a high DPI such as 300 or 400, for better quality. If you are scanning little photos, you need to do them at about 1200 dpi.

In recent months we have been working our way through the families that we did have the death and funeral notices for in roughly alphabetical order, but interconnections with other families have often led us to jump down the list on occasions.

Given all the online facilities now available, it is sometimes amazing just how much we can glean from a death notice. The spouse's name, of course, can possibly lead us back to a pre-1972 marriage, with just the NSW Marriage Index entry alone giving us the date of the marriage and, perhaps, a second name or at least a second initial for each party. If the death was pre-1992, the NSW Death Index entry will give us the Christian names of the parents, allowing us perhaps to identify their marriage and place of abode. The parents' marriage record can also lead us to the mother's maiden name, especially if their Christian names are somewhat unique.

Ancestry has a selection of Australian Electoral Rolls dating from 1903 to 1980 available for review online, fully indexed for an easy lookup. If the available rolls cover the desired period and locality, they can expand a person's second initial to a full second name, or can suggest a spouse's name (or possible marriage date) based on who and when a second party starts to be listed at the same address. Similarly, the appearance of children's names in the Electoral Roll give us a guide to how old such children are (if only we could remember when the voting age was lowered).

The Electoral Rolls are also a great assistance when it comes to tracking down land purchases etc – a change of address indicates a possible such transaction, and using the reverse address look-up facility on the NSW Land Registry website can sometimes convert that new address into a Land Deed identity which contains the record of its purchase. Such a short cut saves time consuming searching of the Land Purchasers Indexes and speeds up our ploughing our way through some 600 names!!

Similarly, Electoral Rolls and Land Records can also help us expand the marriage details of the children mentioned in death notices, especially if their marriages are post 1972. A search of the 1977 and 1980 electoral rolls can expand "Bill and Sheree" to "William James Bloggs and Sheree Marie Bloggs".

For migrant families, we are at the mercy of the records available on the Australian Archives website – we may be able to find records that possibly refer to the party or family involved (and hence we would need family confirmation or to purchase a certificate to compare arrival dates / years) or sometimes we hit the jackpot with multiple records that include not only their full names but birth dates and places as well, not just for the parents but for the children as well.

But as we repeat ad-nauseam, the more recent the burial, the less likely we are to be able to use any of the above facilities. We need your help, and we especially need photos.

Below is a list of the names we believe, at this point in time, will be included in our second publication "West Dapto Catholic Cemetery – The Later Families." By the time we get to press, there may be more names added to the list, either through their expected or untimely death in the meantime, or because we find additional names in the Cemetery's Burial Register when we get to do a comprehensive cross check against our lists. So, if you have photos of any of these people, or feel inclined to supply us with details on their life, please, please contact us. And a big thankyou to those who have already answered this call.

Yours in history,
Wendy & Terry Nunan

I recently sent around notice of a small reunion having been organised re the Larkin, Nunan, Staunton and Gait families. Many of the early Larkins were buried in West Dapto, as can be seen from our first publication on West Dapto Cemetery. The local Nunans were not descended from the Larkins as they were from Timothy's second wife (his first wife was Mary Larkin) but some Nunan descendants, such as the Keys family, actually do have Larkin ancestors.

Copies of "West Dapto Catholic Cemetery -The Early Families" and "Shellharbours Forgotten Cemetery" will be available for purchase at the reunion as both publications contain early Larkins.
